

SMSC in Geography

Geography	We promote spiritual development by...	We promote moral development by...	We promote social development by...	We promote cultural development by...
	Inspiring awe and wonder at the natural world and the human features within it.	Providing opportunities for students to recognise that development takes place within a global context and that local decisions affect and are affected by decisions and processes in other countries (for example river pollution).	The study of real people in different societies.	The study of real people in real places in the present.
	Inspiring wonder of the natural environment and physical features such as rivers, mountains, hills, volcanoes or the effect of weather and climate.	Issues of justice, fairness and democracy are central and can be debated in terms of students' own experiences as well as using geographical issues as contexts.	In looking at their own locality and others in the world, students' sense of identity and community can be strengthened by comparing and contrasting.	Providing opportunities for multi-cultural education through recognising commonalities and differences.
	Considering the effect that the environment continues to have on settlement and peoples' daily lives.			Encouraging students to reflect on their own personal reality of sense of space.
	Consider the connection tribes and groups have to the physical geography around them and why they feel this way.	Debating over climate change and if it is worth it to further develop as humans.
